Part 1: The Engagement

Announcing Your Engagement

Traditionally, the bride's parents announce the engagement to their friends and family, followed by the groom's parents. However, in contemporary times, couples often choose to make the announcement themselves through social media or a personal website.

Engagement Party Etiquette

An engagement party is an optional event hosted by the couple or their parents to celebrate the engagement. Guests typically bring small gifts, such as home goods or gift cards, and enjoy food, drinks, and socializing.

Part 2: Planning The Wedding

Choosing The Wedding Date And Venue

The wedding date is often chosen based on the couple's availability, the season, and the availability of the venue. Popular venues include churches, banquet halls, and outdoor spaces, and it's important to book the venue well in advance.

Creating The Guest List

The guest list is one of the most important aspects of wedding planning. Couples should consider their budget, the size of the venue, and their relationship with each guest when creating the list.

Selecting The Wedding Party

The wedding party typically consists of the maid of honor, bridesmaids, best man, and groomsmen. Couples should choose individuals who are close to them and who will support them throughout the planning process and on the big day.

Part 3: The Ceremony

Wedding Ceremony Etiquette

The wedding ceremony is the heart of the celebration. Couples should work with their officiant to create a ceremony that is meaningful and reflects their beliefs and values.

Processional Free Download

The processional Free Download is the Free Download in which the wedding party and the couple enter the ceremony space. Traditionally, the bridesmaids and groomsmen walk down the aisle first, followed by the maid of honor and best man, and finally the bride and groom.

Part 4: The Reception

Reception Etiquette

The wedding reception is a time for guests to celebrate the newlyweds and enjoy food, drinks, and dancing. Couples should plan a reception that fits their style and budget, and consider hiring a wedding planner to help coordinate the event.

First Dance And Parent Dances

The first dance is a special moment for the newlyweds to share their first dance as a married couple. Traditionally, the couple also shares a dance with their parents.

Part 5: Post-Wedding Etiquette

Thank You Notes

After the wedding, it is customary for the couple to send thank you notes to their guests for attending the celebration and for any gifts they received.

Changing Your Name

If the bride chooses to change her last name, she should notify the Social Security Administration, the Department of Motor Vehicles, and her bank and credit card companies.
